

THREE ARE LOST IN FROZEN NORTH

News Comes From Canada Of Probable Dis- astrous End Of Another Arctic Expedition.

CHICAGO MAN AMONG THE MISSING

Schooner "Duchess Of Bedford" Believed To Have Sunk And One Team Of Dogs Which Carried Away Explorers. Has Returned.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Athabasca Landing, Canada, Sept. 6.—News of the probable loss of the schooner Duchess of Bedford, the ship belonging to the Anglo-American Arctic expedition which hoped to find a new continent north of the Mackenzie river, was brought here by Alfred Harrison, who has been in the Arctic circle for two years and who came here on the steamer "Midnight Sun."
Mr. Harrison said Ernest Stefansson of Harvard university after whom the expedition has been named, himself brought the news of the loss of the ship and the loss of the team of dogs which carried away the explorers. He also brought news of the disappearance of three members of the party and expressed the fear that they had met death in the frozen north.
The missing men are Captain Mikkelsen, a Dane; Ernest Leffingwell of Chicago, and J. M. Marks. They left the ship in February with sixty days' provisions for the supposed land to the north, and had been gone seventy days and no news had been received from them. One of their teams of dogs had returned and it is likely the party will never be heard from again.
The schooner "Duchess of Bedford," Stefansson thought, had probably sunk. The ship had been filled with water, probably from the ice strain, but the crew had been able to remove everything of value to the mainland.

The robbers covered the train crew with revolvers and then went through the chairs, relieving passengers of their purses and pocketbooks. They made their escape by jumping from the train. At Murdoch the hold-up was reported and a posse started in pursuit of bandits. The latter have several hours' start.

CRACK SHOTS READY FOR PALMA CONTEST

Marksmen From All Parts of This Country and Canada at Ottawa for Great Trophy Shoot.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 6.—Everything is in readiness for the beginning tomorrow of the Palma trophy, in which the best shots of England, Australia, Canada and the United States will compete. The matches will be shot on the Ottawa range at Rockcliffe, one of the finest rifle ranges in the world. The first is delivered northeast on fifty targets set in one line. Behind the pit is a high stoplight, painted black, which minimizes the effect of the early morning light. Against the back stop the targets show up with great distinctness.
The contest for the Palma trophy always causes a great deal of interest on both sides of the Atlantic. In 1902 the British team was the winner, and in the following year the team from the United States secured possession of the trophy, securing 1,575 points against Great Britain's 1,555. Owing to an inadvertent breach of conditions however, the United States team returned the trophy to Great Britain.
The rules governing the contest this year are that each man of the team entered shall fire ten rounds at 800, 900 and 1,000 yards, using the service rifle and sights adopted in the country they represent and any ammunition suitable to the rifle.
In addition to her turbine equipment, the Lusitania presents many novel features. She has accommodations for 2,200 passengers and a crew of 800. Family suites, elevators and telephones, nursery, gymnasium, Turkish, vapor and needle baths are special features. Regal suites consisting of two bedrooms, a dining room, reception room and a bathroom have been provided for those who care to pay the price. All the departments are ten and a half feet high and furnished in as costly and luxurious a style as in the best New York hotels.
One of the striking features of the ship is the great dining hall, the full breadth of the vessel, with a colossal dome reaching up to the topmost deck and exquisitely decorated by artists of note. Another novel feature is the arrangement by which all the state rooms have their beds warmed by electric water heaters.
The Lusitania is 255 feet long and has a breadth of 88 feet. Her cost was $6,000,000. She is not only a floating city of the most luxurious type, but if the calculations of her builders are correct she will be able to establish a new speed record for the passage between Liverpool and New York.

New Liner, Lusitania, Expected to Break Trans-Atlantic Record—Flood- ing City of Luxurious Type.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Liverpool, Sept. 6.—With a full passenger list the new 25-knot turbine-powered liner Lusitania will leave Liverpool tomorrow morning on her maiden trip to New York. The Lusitania presents many novel features and on her first trip she will carry a number of government engineers and experts representing practically all the big transatlantic lines, who are desirous of seeing for themselves how the mammoth ship will acquit herself on her first trip across the sea.
To begin with the Lusitania will afford the first real test of turbines as applied to the fast transatlantic liners. The Germans and others have been experimenting with the turbines and in large vessels like the German and the Allan liners, but the Lusitania is the first modern steamship to use them for the development of great speed.

ATHLETES BEGIN A GREAT MEET IN JAMESTOWN TODAY

Large Cities Of Country Have Teams Entered To Compete For National Honors.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Norfolk, Va., Sept. 6.—Never before in the history of the Amateur Athletic Union of America has there been such a wealth of runners, jumpers and weight hurdlers of high grade entered for the national championships as gathered today for the two days' meet at the Jamestown exposition. Nor has the outcome of the contests ever been quite so much in doubt. It seems almost certain that some of the present records will be displaced by higher figures during the two days, and that the present champions will have to fight hard to retain their titles.
In the number of competing athletes and their high quality, the meet breaks all records. They come from as far west as California and Oregon, from many parts of the South, East, and middle West, and from as far north as Canada.
Program of Events.
For each of the divisions of athletes—Juniors and seniors—the program is the same, consisting of 16 events calculated to test every muscle in the body. The list is made up as follows: Runs at 100, 220, 440, 880, one mile and five miles; hurdle race at 120 and 220 yards. Running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, for height, throwing 56-pound weight, throwing 16-pound hammer, putting 16-pound shot, and throwing the discus both free and Greek style.
A gold medal, emblematic of the championship of the United States, will be given to the winner of each event, a silver medal to the second, and a bronze medal to the third. To the team of any athletic club which wins the greatest number of points in the series of games will be awarded a handsome banner.
All Sections Represented.
It is predicted that the strongest competitors will be the representatives of the New York Athletic club, Chicago Athletic association and Boston Athletic association. The Olympic Athletic club of San Francisco and the Pacific Northwest association have entered strong teams and it is regarded as within the range of possibilities that the visitors from the far west may go home with one of the national championships in their possession. Other organizations that have sent formidable teams to compete in the championships include the Missouri Athletic club of St. Louis and the Southern Athletic association of New Orleans.
Canada has sent some of the best athletes that she can boast of. A team of more than twenty performers, entered under the colors of the Montreal A. A. A., will compete, and the Dominion men have hopes that they will figure well up in the list when the tables are finally tallied.
Some Record Prognostications.
It is regarded as likely that Melvin Sheppard of the Irish-American A. C. may get Kilpatrick's half-mile record of 1:53 2/5, while there are not a few experts who think that in the mile run Guy Hawkins, the University of Pennsylvania man, may lower Conner's mark of 4:15 3/5.
The hammer throw will bring together one world champion and two would be champions. The actual champion is John Flanagan, of the New York A. C., whose mark of 172 feet 11 inches still stands. Flanagan's most formidable competitors will be Matt McGrath, also of the New York A. C., and A. Flaw, the Californian, who recently has been throwing the leaden ball 170 feet and better with much regularity.
Longman, who has vaulted 12 feet 4 inches, looks to have the pole vault at his mercy. Taylor of Pennsylvania is picked in the quarter-mile event. In the two-mile run Bonham of the Irish A. A. C. should be an easy winner. In the broad jump Prinstein, the American champion, is likely to have his colors lowered by O'Connell, a New Yorker, who has been jumping consistently in the neighborhood of 23 feet. Wesley Cox, who now holds the world's record, ought to win the shot put. But he will have to be in tiptop form or he will lose his laurels to Krueger of Swarthmore, the intercollegiate champion.
For the team championship it looks as though there will be a split between the three-cornered fight between the New York A. C. and the Irish-American A. C., both of New York, and the Olympic A. C. of San Francisco. The Californians team is regarded as particularly strong in every event, and may cause several upsets.

TO WHISPER "THE WORD" AT STATE PUMPKIN SHOW

La Follette's Friends Will Mingle With All Comers And Mould Sentiment For Candidate Against "Uncle Isaac."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Sept. 6.—Politics will be a big feature of the Wisconsin state fair at Milwaukee next week. Senator H. M. La Follette has been at his home here this week and has been in daily conference with one of the state's most prominent politicians, La Follette's word regarding these conferences, but it is freely admitted that plans are being made for the "state fair campaign" which means that the La Follette people will be at the state pumpkin and pig exhibition in numbers to mix with the visitors from over the commonwealth and whisper the plan of the senator respecting the coming days in Wisconsin. It is denied that any plan has been agreed upon or that La Follette has given any orders indicating a set program, but occasionally gossip is heard indicating that Senator La Follette has a momentous fight before him to maintain his political power in the state.
It appears quite plainly that he is "up against" a terrible combination in Senator Isaac Stephenson, Governor Davidson and Lieutenant Governor Connor. The fact that Stephenson is grateful to Connor for the latter's delivery of the necessary votes in the senatorial contest in the legislature last winter is repeatedly shown by the attitude of the Stephenson news-paper, the Milwaukee Free Press, which was founded as a La Follette organ and was supported by the long-continued generosity of the Marinette millionaire, now senator. When it was said months ago that Stephenson would not try for an election for the full term of senator, being content to serve out the remaining two years of the term which Senator John C. Spooner left unfinished, it is now more and more accepted that the old man from Marinette claims election for a full term, and it is said to be assured that in this desire he will be opposed by La Follette.
One of the most important topics said to have been discussed at the La Follette conference this week is the choice of the faction for a senatorial candidate to run against Stephenson in the primaries a year hence. The name of Secretary of State Fear has been considered according to one report upon which reliance is placed, but he is reluctant to give up the practical certainty of a second term as state auditor for the hard fight for senator with its attendant uncertainty, particularly if the powerful Stephenson-Davidson-Connor combination is to be against him. It is known that La Follette would very much like to have L. L. Leacock of Superior, former speaker and candidate for governor, as his colleague in the senate, but his unavailability is recognized.

It is said that the age of the frog, as determined by its size, is well nigh onto thirty years.

THE HUMOROUS SIDE OF DENTISTRY

At the Dentist's.—"Do you give gas here?" asked a wild-looking man who rushed into a dentist's. "We do," replied the dentist. "Does it put a fellow to sleep?" "It does," "Sound asleep, so you can't wake him up?" "Yes," "You could break his jaw or black his eye and he wouldn't feel it?" "He would know nothing about it," "How long does he sleep?" "The physical insensibility produced by inhaling the gas lasts a minute, or probably a little less," "I expect that's long enough. Got it all ready for a fellow to take?" "Yes," "Take a seat in this chair and show me your teeth," "Tooth nothing," said the excited customer, bellowing rapidly to remove his coat and vest. "I want you to pull a porous plaster off my back."

"This didn't happen in Dr. Richards' office, but, the questions and answers about the administration of gas are accurate and interesting to those contemplating Dental work."

LEAF CROP WILL

BE A GOOD ONE

PACKERS HAVE BEEN "BEARING" IT FOR A PURPOSE.

ACCORDING TO F. H. BEMIS

Says That It Will Be of a Higher Grade and Weigh in Heavier Than the 1906 Crop.

Have the leaf dealers of Wisconsin been engaged in the shrewd game of crying down this year's crop in order to frighten the eastern buyers and coax out tempting offers for earlier packings, while as a matter of fact the crop that is maturing is as good as that of the previous year, if not better? That is the impression gained from a conversation with Fred H. Bemis, who was a pleasant caller at the Gazette office this morning.

Shows Some Splendid Leaves.

Mr. Bemis, who is the inventor of a transplanter which is now in almost universal use—even in Durand, Berne, Sumatra, and along the Amazon in Brazil—and who is a veteran grower, has also areas under cultivation this year on the farm located eight miles west of the city. He brought with him to the city two splendid, glossy, fine-ribbed leaves measuring 29 inches in length and 1 1/2 inches in width, which were grown from H. S. Pomero's Golden Spanish seed. He believes that this seed has furnished a trifle better leaf than that provided by the state—both kinds being included in his crop—but says that his tenants do not agree with him.

Have the "Goodies."

"We have the goods, and if they come after them, they'll get them," says Mr. Bemis, opening statement.

"I don't say that there is no poor tobacco—some people don't handle it right and sometimes the ground is against them, even with the best methods of cultivation. But where anyone has been able to take advantage of the good chance the weather afforded, he is going to come out all right. The little spout of cool weather has done no harm. The nearest we came to getting hurt was during those few hot days when the leaf in some instances started to rust a little in the lowlands. Of course there is always the chance of damage in the sheds but this contingency is no more to be anticipated this fall than during the previous seasons."

Thinks Crop Will Weigh More.

"Of course I am only talking of what I know about my crops and those in my section of the county. We have had larger ones, but I believe that this year's crop will weigh more than that of the previous season, judging from the 15 or 20 tons I have already cut. The 1906 crop was a peculiar one—thin and papery leaf. We have had better seed this year and the quality of the leaf is even—there are not so many coarse crops. Drive all day and you will see pretty much the same kind of crop in the fields. The state distribution has been a great thing in this respect. The packer no longer has to cut each crop in a separate sorting bin."

Has Traveled Far.

In the course of his discussion of the leaf crop, Mr. Bemis was reminded of some interesting incident which occurred during his trip up the Amazon river and into Argentine twenty years ago, and was moved to relate a number of curious facts about the little known southern continent. Replying as household pets, used to serve the purpose of cats in exterminating rats and mice, and the curious habits of the mammoth but harmless cow-anke which follows the herds and, according to some romancers, milks the cows; were some of the topics dwelt upon.

—AND—

Save 20 Per Cent of Your Fuel Bill

SMOKELESS! CHEAP! SOOTLESS!

"Use It Just As You Would Hard Coal"

DIRECTIONS

Build the fire same as for coal. Put on moderate supply of Coke before lighting, and in a few minutes you have a good fire. If the Coke is very dry you may moisten the next lot you put on, and it will give you a steadier fire and last longer.

Shake down ash only in the morning and stop when first bright coals drop.

To keep over night, let the ashes collect about two inches over the grate, fill the fire-box well up with fine damp Coke, and in about two minutes close the draughts

Do not shake or rake the fire much.

This fuel requires but little draft when once ignited.

It is more economical to have a large body of Coke under a slow fire, than a little Coke burning a quick fire.

FARMERS SHOULD BUY COAL

DIG STOCKS HAVE BEEN SHIPPED INTO NORTH DAKOTA.

Commissioner Lane Finds Railways Are Doing Their Part to Avert Another Fuel Famine.

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—Franklin H. Lane of the interstate commerce commission, is in St. Paul conferring with representatives of western railroad lines in respect to the coal and grain transportation situation and the possible repetition of the shortage and ear congestion of a year ago. The commissioner desires to acquaint himself in advance with the probable shortages in coal or cars.

Commissioner Lane Thursday held a conference with President Louis W. Hill, W. H. Begg and W. W. Broughton, of the Great Northern railway. From statements made by the railway men, the situation in respect to the coal supply in North Dakota seemed to be that an extra large amount of coal has been transported over the Great Northern road to the retail coal dealers of North Dakota towns and cities, but this large supply has not been purchased by the farmers.

As to about 90 per cent. of the retail coal dealers, it appears that they have enlarged their shed capacity and have stocked up to the limit and will not at present handle any more coal. In Montana, Idaho and eastern Washington the situation is less hopeful.

There is an indication of heavy shipments of coal direct from Duluth to the west.

From the testimony offered by the Great Northern railway men and from conclusions reached by Commissioner Lane, it would seem that the situation would be relieved greatly if the farmers would stock up with coal now, rather than wait until later in the season.

The commissioner expects to remain here about three days and on Friday will hear representatives of the Northern Pacific.

THE GRIP OF HONOR

Cyrus Townsend Brady,

Author of "The Southerners," "In the Days of the South," etc.

Copyright, 1906, by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

Off on the starboard bow the Patrol was gallantly speeding toward her distant foe. The Alliance, having paid no attention to repeated signals, was still edging in toward the mast. The Seraph, with her topmast to the mast, her men at quarters, ports open, lanterns lighted, was grimly waiting. As Jones' eye fell upon the Alliance his lips were tightened. A black shadow swept across his face which boded ill for the Patrol again. When Dale, standing by his side, ventured to break his reverie by a bitter comment upon the defection of the Patrol, Jones remarked:

"Never mind, sir. The fewer we are the more honor we shall gain by taking them."

But in the main the two officers kept silent watch together. Even the chattering Frenchmen caught the contagion of the portentous moments and stood in quiet ranks prepared and ready. It was no quarrel of theirs, this in which they fought, but their old and ever present hatred of England gave them inspiration enough for the conflict. The breeze freshened slightly, and as the Patrol drew nearer the Seraph the latter swung her ponderous mullin and slowly filled away. The two ships were sailing at right angles to each other, the Patrol slightly ahead of the Seraph, which was moving to cross her bow.

"Shall I go to the batteries now, captain?" asked the first lieutenant.

"Yes, I think you would better," answered Jones, stretching out his hand.

"Goodby, sir," said the other, grasping it firmly.

"Goodby. God bless you, Richard," said the older man, looking gravely at his beloved subordinate.

"And you, sir," returned Dale, with an unusual accent of tender affection. Then he turned and ran rapidly to his station.

"Pass the word quickly," said Jones to young Brooks, "for the men to deliver their fire promptly and together when the word is given. Not a gun is to be discharged until the order. After that, as rapidly as possible."

As the fleet footed midshipman ran along the decks a little murmur of excitement arose. There was a shifting of positions. Men sprang to their stations. Hushed whispers came from the gun platforms as the smoldering matches or glowing loggerticks were handed to them by their subordinates. "Silence fore and aft the decks!" came the clear voice of the captain.

The muzzles died away as young Brooks sprang up the ladder and reported that everything was ready. The boy officers choked down something that rose in their throats as they walked nervously up and down their divisions. A feeling thought they gave to home, mother, home of play, so far away. It was the first battle for many of them. Down on the berth deck in front of the hatchway little Payne looked to the printing of his pistols and whispered a word or two to the men, who stood with their muskets pointing down through the gratings covering the hatchway. He wished he had been up on deck with the rest, fighting a great gun or attached to the side of the captain, but the captain had told him that the post of honor and importance was here, and here he would stand. There, on the starboard side, his young messmate and friend, McCollin, gave another careful inspection to his three old 18 pounders, firmly resolved to give such an account with them, if they did not burst, as would decide the action.

Coswell and Mayrant were in the forecabin to fight the two guns there. Mr. Mayrant, the purser, as brave a man as ever stepped a deck, though no sailor, had charge of the quarter deck guns. Stacey, the sailing master, stood aft by the wheel to assist in working the ship. Brooks and the Patrol were on the port near Jones. Fanning, with his bullets in the muzzles, was anxiously wishing that he, too, might have a place in the center of the conflict, the gun deck, little knowing what decisive moment was in store for him.

They were nearer now, well within gun shot, yet there was no sound from either ship. The tense expectancy of the moment was becoming unbearable to the younger hands. What were the captains of the ships about? Why didn't they fire? Away off on the horizon flashes of light and the deep boom of artillery reverberating across the water told that their combat had joined in battle with the Scarlborough. Why were they so slow? Suddenly, in the midst of the silence, broken only by the soft sigh of the summer wind through the top humpers, the splashing of the bluff bows as they forced themselves through the rippling water, came the sound of a hall from the English ship, the words of which were indistinguishable.

"I don't understand you," cried Jones, then he turned to the quarter-master and said softly:

"Over with the helms! Hard a-star-board!" As the wheel was put over by the skillful hands of the quarter-master and his mate the great ship swung slowly to port and rounded to off the port bow of the English ship.

The Englishman hailed again. "This is the United States ship Don Homme Richard," shouted Paul Jones in reply, at the top of his voice, springing up on the rail the while. "Stand by!" A quiver and shiver went through the ship from her tops to her very vitals. "Fire!"

Streams of light leaped out in the darkness. Clouds of smoke rose at once from the sides of the Richard only to be met and brushed away by a broadside which had been delivered no less promptly from the English ship. Groans and curses and yells and cheers rose from the blood stained decks upon which men writhed in the agony of ghastly wounds or lay contorted in hideous death where they had fallen, for at close range both broadsides had done fearful execution.

The desperate men ran the huge guns in and out and loosed them with frantic energy and kept up a continuous command upon their foes. The roar of the great guns drowned every other sound as the two ships sailed side by side in bitter conflict, but the trained ear of the American captain had detected another sound coincident with the first broadside which told a tale of disaster. When the loggerticks had been applied to the priming of two of the 18 pounders they had exploded with terrific concussion, killing and wounding nearly every man of their crews.

McCollin, who commanded the battery, was struck by a piece of iron and received a dreadful wound. He remained at his post, however, clinging tenaciously to a broken stanchion for a moment until he recovered himself a little. As the frightened and appalled men shrunk away from the remaining gun of the battery, not yet discharged in view of the dreadful explosion, he seized the hot iron from the dead hand of the captain of No. 1 gun, and setting his lips grimly staggered over to the last canon.

"Don't do it, sir!" hoarsely cried the old boatwain's mate who served under him. "It'll blow up with ye, as the others ha' done!" There was no reply. McCollin was beyond words. With set lips and grim face, in silence he waded on before the awe-struck men.

With tottering steps he reached the gun and applied the iron. There was a blinding roar and the gun whirled inboard in rapid recoil from the force of the discharge.

"Load it again," said the gasping boy, striving to stop the blood with his hand against his side. Before the men who, inspired by such heroism, had sprung eagerly forward, could reach the place, an 18 pound shot from the Seraph's lower deck struck it fair and square on the trunnion and dismounted it. That battery was useless. The explosion had made a gaping hole in the side of the Richard, through which the red lighted side of the Seraph but a short distance away could be seen plainly. The deck above and below was badly shattered by the blowing up of the guns.

"All the men alive of this division," said McCollin thickly, "well find places at the divisions on the gun deck. We can do nothing more here. Goodby, Payne."

A few moments later a powder blackened, blood stained, white faced, desperate little figure appeared out of the smoke before the captain.

"McCollin, you hear!" he cried sternly. "Why are you not with your battery, sir?"

"I have to report, sir," said the boy, grasping the rail with one hand to keep from falling while he saluted with the other, "that two of the berth deck guns blew up, sir, and the other was dismounted. Have you any orders for me, sir?"

"Too bad!" cried Jones. "Orders—

but you are wounded!"

At this moment a round shot struck the Patrol in the chest. With his hand still at salute he was whirled across the deck and thrown against the taffrail, a broken mass of what had been humanity.

"Good heaven!" exclaimed the captain, starting and almost losing his

The quick handling of the English ship frustrated this plan. The bow of the Richard struck the port quarter of the Seraph. The two ships hung together a moment, boards were canted on both sides, but before they could be used the two ships drifted apart and formed a line ahead, with not a single gun bearing on either ship. BIG FAILURE ON 'CHANGE

WATSON & CO., GRAIN AND STOCKS, FORCED TO WALL.

Firm Has Offices in Western Cities and Several Members Are Minneapolis Men.

New York, Sept. 6.—The failure of Watson & Co., members of the New York Stock and Produce exchanges, and of the Chicago Board of Trade, was announced in those exchanges Thursday. No cause was assigned for the failure nor was any estimate of the liabilities and assets made public.

The firm has had extensive connections in the west, maintaining offices in Duluth, Minneapolis, Fargo and Winnipeg. It is said to have carried on one of the biggest grain brokerage businesses in the country besides trading actively in railroad stocks, particularly those of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

Mr. Frank Nowell, manager of the firm's New York office, was named as assignee. The doors of the office in Broad street were closed after the announcement of the failure. Horatio B. Shoemaker, counsel for the assignee, said that expert accountants had been put to work on the books and that a statement of the financial condition of the firm would soon be issued. He said also that the banks holding Watson & Co.'s loans have shown a disposition to give the firm an opportunity to extricate itself from its difficulties. The members of the firm are Louis T. Watson, Henry P. Watson, Charles E. Anderson and Herschell V. Jones. Louis T. Watson is the only member of the firm residing in this city, the others being residents of Minneapolis.

Announcement of the failure on the stock exchange had been discounted by the traders, many of whom had a warning of it and had sold or made

Beach's Peosta Soap

Whether the washing is done in the house or whether it is "put out" the Housewife who furnishes or specifies Beach's Peosta Soap for her washing knows that the clothes will be clean. That they won't be worn out by injurious rubbing on a scrub-board, and that the fibre will never be injured.

Peosta Soap cannot "eat" the clothes as it contains nothing which could injure them in the least. It saves clothes because when they have been soaked an hour in Peosta suds they are ready to "come white" with just a light rubbing. No boiling is necessary, though boiling, if preferred, does no harm.

BIG FAILURE ON 'CHANGE

WATSON & CO., GRAIN AND STOCKS, FORCED TO WALL.

Firm Has Offices in Western Cities and Several Members Are Minneapolis Men.

New York, Sept. 6.—The failure of Watson & Co., members of the New York Stock and Produce exchanges, and of the Chicago Board of Trade, was announced in those exchanges Thursday.

No cause was assigned for the failure nor was any estimate of the liabilities and assets made public.

The firm has had extensive connections in the west, maintaining offices in Duluth, Minneapolis, Fargo and Winnipeg.

It is said to have carried on one of the biggest grain brokerage businesses in the country besides trading actively in railroad stocks, particularly those of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

Mr. Frank Nowell, manager of the firm's New York office, was named as assignee.

The doors of the office in Broad street were closed after the announcement of the failure.

Horatio B. Shoemaker, counsel for the assignee, said that expert accountants had been put to work on the books and that a statement of the financial condition of the firm would soon be issued.

He said also that the banks holding Watson & Co.'s loans have shown a disposition to give the firm an opportunity to extricate itself from its difficulties.

The members of the firm are Louis T. Watson, Henry P. Watson, Charles E. Anderson and Herschell V. Jones.

Louis T. Watson is the only member of the firm residing in this city, the others being residents of Minneapolis.

Announcement of the failure on the stock exchange had been discounted by the traders, many of whom had a warning of it and had sold or made contracts to sell stocks in anticipation of a decline. This was said to be the cause of the weakness of the market during the morning. The effect of the failure having been discounted before it was announced, prices advanced as soon as the news became known, speculators for the decline being compelled to buy at higher prices in order to fill their earlier contracts to sell.

On the grain market there was a decline of 2 cents per bushel upon the announcement of the failure, but this was recovered later in the day.

No--- It Doesn't "Draw" Lightning

The popular idea—in the days of the old jointed iron lightning-rod—used to be that the rod protected a building by "drawing" the lightning and discharging it into the ground.

Whether it did this or not is a question—but there is no question as to the fact that many houses with these old-fashioned rods were badly damaged and sometimes totally destroyed as a result of poor conducting qualities of the rod.

Now, the Dodd & Struthers scientific jointless, pure copper cable lightning rod does NOT "draw" the lightning, but it DOES ABSOLUTELY PREVENT lightning striking any building equipped with it.

Over two hundred thousand buildings rod-dod with the Dodd & Struthers copper cable rod, and NOT ONE OF THEM EVER DAMAGED BY LIGHTNING, prove this assertion.

I'll be very glad to demonstrate and show you just WHY.
